A NEW PARADISE EVERY DAY

Impressive mountain flanks form a guard of honour in order to allow nature and guests to pass through the sun-drenched expanse of the 70 km long high-mountain valley. If you follow the call of the mountains and allow yourself to be carried up by the mountain railways, you will encounter impressive treats as soon as you step out of the gondola: countless paradises between the highest peaks of the Eastern Alps, glaciers and lakes which can be conquered by hiking and biking. Thirteen funicular railways, chair lifts and gondola lifts ease the way to the destination. This not only appeals to the energy balance. There is also more time to get to know the menus of the mountain restaurants and to discover the mountain world with the offers from Piz Nair, Corvatsch, Diavolezza and Muottas Muragl. A variety of tips and suggestions are available on the following pages for this purpose. A good prerequisite for enjoying the hospitality in a different natural paradise every day!

MOUNTAIN RAILWAYS AND PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION INCLUSIVE

Mountain railway and mountains inclusive

It is worthwhile to stay longer in about 90 Engadine hotels. In addition to the restful mountain slumber, all 13 facilities of the mountain railways and partially the public transportation are also inclusive with the second overnight stay.

The ticket comes directly to the guest

Actually you should say goodbye to impatience during the holidays. But the "Mountain Railway Inclusive Ticket" is of benefit to those who cannot wait to stand next to the summit cross. The mountain railway ticket is already handed over during check-in at the hotel. As a result, on the next mountain day either an extra round of cappuccino is possible or you set your sights on the next higher summit. In fact, the ticket allows direct access to the gondola – without having to stand in line at the ticket window!

Whoever would like to explore the scenic beauties of the Upper Engadine by foot will get their money's worth at Corvatsch. A vast number of worthwhile hikes lead from Sils, Silvaplana, St. Moritz or Pontresina towards and around the Corvatsch region. Soon enough one moves above the forest line and enjoys splendid views of glaciers and lakes. The trail via Fuorcla Surlej down into Val Roseg and back to Pontresina is a special experience. The mountain summer with its fragrant herb meadows can be particularly enjoyed in dreamy Val Fex. Val Fex is accessible from the Furtshellas top station via Alp Munt or Marmoré. The "Waterway Trail", a leisurely 2 1/2 hour hike which leads past six idyllic mountain lakes, also offers unforgettable impressions. Starting point: Furtshellas top station. Whether sportive and performance-oriented or for desire and pleasure, every interest finds a suitable route in the Corvatsch hiking area.

Hiking: 3 tips

Corvatsch Panorama Trail: Proceed leisurely over aromatic alpine meadows and flourishing summer pastures. An easy hike leads from the Corvatsch halfway station to the Furtshellas top station. The Osteria Rabgiusa invites you to stay awhile at the halfway point. Fuorcla Surlej – Pontresina: Trek up into the glacier world. The approximately four-hour, easily passable hiking trail leads via Fuorcla Surlej down towards Pontresina, and features a view of the majestic Bernina Range. Refreshments are available at Hotel Roseggletscher. Furtshellas – Val Fex – Sils Maria: The hike leads past the cool mountain lake Lej Sgrischus via Alp Munt down into the idyllic Fex Valley. A bit of stamina is needed for the five-hour hike.

Operating times Corvatsch – Station Surlej

 08:30 – 17:05 every 30 minutes
 10.07. – 21.08.10
 08:30 – 17:25 every 30 minutes

Theme trails: 2 tips

The Waterway Trail links the six idyllic mountain lakes – the "Lejins" – on a comfortable and easily passable hiking trail in the Furtshellas mountain area. Via Gastronomica: Combine culinary delights with a panorama view. You start at the Furtshellas top station for a 3-course menu, e.g. with a fine "Furtshellas-Plättli". After that the hike proceeds to the next restaurant. Different routes can be selected for the culinary trail from the Furtshellas top station to Val Fex and further towards Sils.

Audio tour: 1 tip

Waterway Trail Audio Tour: During the hike you can listen per iPod to the history of the lakes and fairylike stories, and immerse with all senses in the mountain world.

The "Black Peak" and its sporty neighbours: hikers love the mountains and the energy of alpine nature. There is more than enough of this in the Piz Nair, Corviglia and Marguns region: a view which extends over the Upper Engadine lake district almost to Maloja on nice days, scenery comprised of green bowls, mountain streams and lakes, and a kaleidoscope of possibilities to wander through the alpine world with hiking shoes or per bike. Athletic cyclists will find a veritable highlight along the route from the Corviglia top station to Suvretta Pass via Val Bever to Celerina. And with a little consideration all species can still get past each other: even the downhill riders on Trottinetts (scooters) set their sights more on enjoyment than on racing during their ride from Marguns to Celerina.

Hiking: 3 tips

Marguns – Corviglia: Even children manage the walk from Marguns to the Corviglia in two hours. Good footwear is recommended. Piz Nair – Corviglia: A moderate 2 1/2 hour hike from Piz Nair via Lej da la Pësch to the Corviglia top station. Panorama Trail: Fantastic views unfurl between Marguns, Chamanna Saluver, Piz Padella and Samedan within three to four hours.

Biking: 2 tips

Marguns – Glüna – Corviglia – St. Moritz: The route from Marguns via the Glüna base station, Lej Alv, Corviglia, Suvretta Pass to Champfèr clearly cannot be managed without the joy in mountain biking and a demanding downhill ride. Suvretta Loop: The big tour from the Corviglia top station below Piz Nair, up to Suvretta Pass, Alp Suvretta, Spinas and back to Celerina takes four to five hours and especially demands riding ability.

Where the true high mountains start! The Engadine Valley lies almost 2,000 metres above sea level. Here the mountains must even rise into the sky in order to appear high. The Bernina massif vis-à-vis the Diavolezza shows true enormity in this connection. It towers impressively above the scenery with eight peaks ranging up to about the four thousand metre mark: a veritable feast for the eyes and an El Dorado for climbers and alpine mountaineers. But in addition to the declared top destinations Piz Palü and Piz Bernina, the high mountain region from the pivotal Diavolezza can also be experienced in another way: during a glacier hike across the tongue of the Pers & Morteratsch Glaciers – on the 500 treading steps of the fixed-rope climbing route (Via Ferrata) or during a wellness experience at Europe's highest Jacuzzi.

Hiking: 3 tips

Diavolezza – Sass Queder: The tour on the nearby summit takes just 45 minutes.
Diavolezza – Munt Pers: The hike from the Diavolezza top station to the Munt Pers lookout point is easy. The Senda dal Diavel is assigned to the type "alpine hiking" because of climbing passages and airy positions but also because you can spend 5 hours in the high alpine setting of the Bernina area. Ascent is via Lej Collinas – East Ridge of Munt Pers – Berghaus Diavolezza. Only for experienced hikers!

Mountain adventures: 2 tips

Climbing path: The entry to Via Ferrata / Piz Trovat is only 20 minutes away and is also suitable for less experienced climbers because of the treading steps and the safety cable. However, surefootedness, a good head for heights and knowledge of climbing are a prerequisite. Equipment can be rented at the base station. Glacier hike: Moraines and glacier tables, ice cracks and crevasses: these natural phenomena can be viewed up close in the course of this guided day tour (see page 25).

Something for the heart ... and for the feet. Not only artists have been inspired since time immemorial by the view from the classic mountain. People like us are also captivated over and over again by the setting. Alone the ascent with the red funicular is a show. For over 100 years it has climbed up the steep slope and is the second oldest mountain railway in the Graubünden region. Some come to enjoy and have a feast, while others want to hike into the panorama, either down to Pontresina or up to the Segantini Hut and Schafberg, where the famous Italian painter Giovanni Segantini died in seclusion. But the mountain is not only the starting point for family excursions, but also for vigorous tours. For instance, you can proceed via Fuorcla Muragl into Val Prùna towards La Punt – a proper day march. Whoever starts from Alp Languard can even hike down via Fuorcla Pischa into the peace and quiet of Val dal Fain.

Hiking: 3 tips

Muottas Muragl – Punt Muragl: The easy route down to the base station can be done in 1½ hours. Muottas Muragl – Segantini Hut: The ascent is managed in nearly two hours. But do not set out under any circumstances without good footwear. Muottas Muragl – Fuorcla Muragl – La Punt: Good physical condition and sure-footedness are required for this tour, which takes a solid 6 hours with the aid of mountain cable cars.

Wildlife:

Those who are lucky cannot only see marmots in the 4-hour wildlife observation tour. The guides direct the route depending on the whereabouts of the animals, and also know where chamois and ibex graze. The meeting point is the base station of the Alp Languard chair lift; every Friday with any weather. Advance reservation is required by 17:00 on the previous day. Via Gastronomica

Culinary delights at every step of the way. The Via Gastronomica is a very special experience that combines the variety of local cuisine with the beauty of the Engadine mountain landscape. You can hike entirely according to your gusto, because the Via Gastronomica offers you various "courses" of different length. The shortest route leads in 1½ hours from the Furtschellas top station via Marmoré down into the dreamy Fex Valley, where fine main courses await you at Hotel Fex. If you would like to garnish your culinary tour even more with a summit view and crystal-clear alpine lakes, you can hike in 4 hours via Lej Sgrischus and over Piz Chüern down into the Fex Valley. In Platta, the lowest hamlet in the Fex Valley, the charming Pensiun Chesa Pool lures with its irresistible desserts. Bon appetite! After that, you can walk leisurely in half an hour along the wildly romantic canyon trail down towards Sils.

Corvatsch Glacier Tour

Earth, stone and tussock are familiar terrain features on hiking trails. But if there is shimmering ice under your feet, this is not only an uplifting feeling, but also an instance which requires a mountain guide. Both are available on the Corvatsch. There is a sophisticated terrain profile, ice trails and for good measure an extensive panoramic view of prominent peaks: Piz Bernina, Piz Roseg, the Sella group and the Bergell peaks in the south. After the ascent of Piz Murtél (3,433 m), the glacier surface is traversed up to Piz Corvatsch before the tour returns to Fuorcla Surlej via the east flank.

Scope of services/comments

- Length: approx. 4 hours
- Meeting place: Corvatsch top station at 10:30
- Insurance is the responsibility of the participant

Muottas Muragl Climate Trail

Europe's first climate experience trail, opened in 1998, has been modernised and updated so that climate change does not remain 'dry material'. 18 thematic plaques make climate change able to be experienced, and explain the already visible changes in the sensitive alpine region. Right above the Pontresina mountain climbing village they are clearly visible due to the permafrost regression. Dry stone walls, dams and other obstruction measures protect the village against mudflows, avalanches and rockslides. The trail leads from Muottas Muragl over Schafberg to Alp Languard. From there one can hike down to the valley or ride down with the chair lift.

Clean Energy Tour

With its overall energy project St. Moritz clearly points the way to the future in terms of nature and environment with its overall energy project. Classic examples shown on the Clean Energy Tour have been created with renewable energies from hydroelectric power, sun, wind and biogas between 1,770 and 3,057 metres above sea level. The informative tour leads from St. Moritz up to Piz Nair (3,057 m). This includes the light-wind facility on Munt da San Murezzan (2,666 m), the 180 solar panels of the Corviglia railway, and the oldest electric power station in Switzerland. It is driven with hydroelectric power. Also on the tour is Norman Foster's highly regarded project in the centre of St. Moritz and the remarkable source which supplies the "Badrutts Palace" luxury hotel with hot water.

Waterway Trail "Circular Hike to the Six Lejins"

Hike for 2½ hours between crystal-clear mountain lakes and the craggy flanks of the Corvatsch massif. Not only the natural show is enchanting while the hike first proceeds towards Alp Munt and then around the lakes. The audio guide also reveals details about the flora, fauna and stories concerning the scattered

'water pots'. The fables are firmly linked with the mountain lakes. But fairies and goblins are there at every turn, and provide welcome variety in addition to resting places and mountain restaurants.

Scope of services/comments

- Hiking time: approx. 2½ hours
- Height differential: 333 m
- The trail is marked with blue posts
- Audio tour available with iPod for 5.- incl.:

ALPINISM

Muottas Muragl Panorama Trail

The most beautiful "high-altitude strolling promenade" of the Engadine region elegantly winds around the Schafberg from Muottas Muragl. The continuation is no less promising. It takes in the Lower Schafberg Hut between mountain pines and gnarled roots of Swiss stone pines before the Alp Languard with chairlift comes into view after a final uphill through steep slopes. Here you either succumb to the charming combination of panorama and fresh pastries or hop into the double chair lift for the descent to Pontresina.

Diavolezza Climbing Wall

Is the weather too bad to go up the Piz Palü? Then it is time for climbing training in the protected top station of the Diavolezza railway. Six routes from the 4th to 6th level of difficulty are located between the perron of the railway cabin and the huge deflexion pulley for the supporting cable. The hall is 12 metres high and offers motivated climbers an athletic preparation for the main test in the Bernina region or the final training before going to bed in the Berghaus.

Scope of services/comments

- The use of the wall is free

ALPINISM

Via Ferrata Piz Trovat

The first "Via Ferrata" in the Engadine leads to the Piz Trovat rock colossus (3,146 m). The entry point to the medium-difficulty climbing adventure (K 2-3) in a breathtaking setting lies only 20 minutes away from the Diavolezza top station. The route starts at about 2,850 metres and follows the west pillar before it crosses a gorge via a cable suspension bridge at about 3,050 metres. The rock climbing path leads via the southwest wall to the summit with a sensational panorama of the highest mountains of the Eastern Alps and the Bernina massif.

Scope of services/comments

- K 2-3 = easy to difficult, partially strenuous and exhausting, exposed spots exist
- Guided via ferrata and glacier tour of approx. 6 hours; good condition is a prerequisite; surefootedness and a good head for heights for walking are necessary.

- Number of participants: 4 – 6 people

Price per person (CHF)

- Rock climbing set: 30.- (Incl. climbing harness, fall arrest harness, helmet)

Date/validity

- Mid-June – mid-October

NEW: "Diavolezza-Express" at Piz Cambrena

The imposing Pers Glacier is at your feet, and the icy wilderness of the Bernina massif is staring you in the face. Whoever wants to approach the famous Bernina cauldron from the east can climb an exciting section via the west flank of Piz Cambrena. Since the autumn of 2009 the M10 climbing bolt signalises the new route aptly augurs its name. The "Diavolezza-Express" is secured on the entire length, can be done within on day and also offers diversified rock-climbing training for alpine pros: non-slip rock underlay in the summer and challenging mixed climbing with ice and snow passages in the event of cool temperatures.

Scope of services/comments

- Level of difficulty: 12 hours in the 5+/6- range (M5+ with snow and ice)

ALPINISM

- From Diavolezza approx. 5-6 hours to the summit
- Climbers can rappel down in case of emergency, but the descent via the Arlas Ridge is better; approx. 3 hours to Diavolezza; material: 2 x 50 m double rope, 10 express ice screws, 1 set of chocks, smaller cams, crampons, perhaps steep-ice gear

NEW: "Via Ferrata La Resgia"

The attractive via ferrata is located on the southern town exit of Pontresina, directly behind Hotel Palü. Starting point is the Werkhof Pontresina maintenance depot. From here you can climb upwards towards Alp Languard. The route ends in the immediate vicinity of the timberline on the Röntgenweg. From there it is approx. 15 minutes uphill until Restaurant Alp Languard is reached. Here you should take a break and enjoy the view on the terrace. Getting down is easy with the chair lift or by foot (approx. 45 min.). Thanks to the good western-facing wall you can also enjoy sun in the late afternoon, so an ascent up until 14:00 is easily possible.

Scope of services/comments

- Approx. 2 hours
- The use of the route is free
- Access at your own risk
- Also possible with mountain guide
- Official level of difficulty: 3 – 4 (more difficult than the Via Ferrata Piz Trovat)

The raw magic of "Senda dal Diavel"

Speak of the devil! In the Engadine region this especially means the beautiful she-devil "Diavolezza", which lures visitors with its proximity to the majestic Bernina area. Now the "Senda dal Diavel" brings the male complement to the region and leads experienced mountaineers into a grandiose setting. The demanding tour extends from the base station to Lej da las Collinas and via the rugged east ridge up to Munt Pers. In between, easy climbing passages and exposed positions with installed safety possibilities convey a feeling of high alpinism. From the summit with a fantastic view the action proceeds downward towards the Diavolezza Berghaus and back to the valley with the gondola lift.

Scope of services/comments

- Level of difficulty: T4 = trace hardly existent, in certain spots you need hands to make progress; marking: white-blue-white; alpine experience necessary; familiarity with exposed terrain
- Length: 3½ - 5 hours
- 650 height metres

Bathing at 3,000 metres above sea level

The smallest spa with the most fantastic view! The Berghaus Diavolezza at 3,000 metres above sea level appears typically functional upon first glance. Yet when entering the cosy panorama restaurant and its terrace you will quickly open your eyes. The mighty icy pillars of the Bernina massif are so close you could almost touch them. And in addition to the creative menu there is a very special kick on the "high balcony": pleasurable bubbling in the wood-fired Jacuzzi. Towels and bathrobes are provided so that you can completely indulge in the unforgettable natural experience.

Scope of services/comments

- Towels, bathrobes, slippers and bathing trunks can be borrowed at the reception desk in the Berghaus.

St. Moritz Heidi's Flower Trail

The easy high-altitude trail provides an interesting and informative insight into alpine flora. It is located directly beneath the Heidi Hut at a reasonable distance in the mountain meadows above St. Moritz. Over 200 species of flowers laid out in floral islands along the trail will be described. The assortment of colours ranging from Superb Pink Carnation to Monkey Flower as well as the photogenic setting around St. Moritz constitutes optical points of attraction. Length: 1 kilometre; suitable for prams.

St. Moritz "Schellenursli Trail"

"High up in the mountains, far from here, there lives a little boy just like you". So starts the story which every child in Switzerland knows. The fairytale is set in the village of Guarda in the Lower Engadine region and concerns the custom of "Chalandamarz", which is the annual expulsion of winter with loud ringing of bells. In authentic ambience, the illustrated fairytale trail not only passes near the Heidi Hut, but for approx. 45 minutes long also features views, fauna and flora as they otherwise only occur in picture books (suitable for prams).

MOUNTAIN ADVENTURES

Trottinett (scooters) Marguns

Of course, you don't always have to hike down from the mountain into the valley. It is also possible with unusual means of transportation. For instance, with Trottinetts! This variation is the order of the day at 2,273 metres above sea level, and is resourceful for speed freaks and families with youngsters age twelve and older. Because the huge scooters with mountain bike wheels await pilots who can also step on the brakes. The scooters are smooth-running, nimble and whoosh with lightning speed back to the starting point. It is almost like flying! But on the ideally suitable dirt road you will especially encounter spotted cattle on alpine meadows as well as a green section of mountain forest.

Mountain bike transport

Spare energy and proceed directly to the fun part! The mountain railways in Celerina and St. Moritz support this motto, and offer taxi service to worthwhile starting points. This is why those who want to explore the outstanding Corviglia bike area only have to pedal away 534 altitude metres later. From there a veritable treat leads to the mountain lake Lej Alv and further towards Suvretta Pass at the foot Piz Nair. The final downhill into the wildly romantic Val Bever is waiting for riders. You will also find further promising routes starting at the Signalbahn railway or from Corviglia in St. Moritz.

Muottas Muragl children's playground

The children's playground at Muottas Muragl will remain closed in the summer of 2010 due to renovations. Reopening is scheduled for December 2010.

Salastrains children's playground

At the end of the "Heidi Et Schellenursli Trail", the little Heidi Hut and the Salastrains playground are lying right next to the Restaurant Salastrains and the Sunshine Bar. A children's zone which invites to cheerful game-playing and easily shortens the waiting period until the meal is served. The children's playground is easily accessible via the Signal- or Chantarella railways (suitable for prams).

Marguns children's playground

Not merely hikes suitable for children start where the 6-seater gondolas shuttle into the top station. In addition to a huge swing and giant slide, tasty pizzas and grill specialities also await guests here. There is a spacious playing area for climbing, swinging and rambling before the "pizzaiolo", the pizza maker, twirls the ordered round speciality in the air. Guests can feast in the restaurant or on the sun terrace. The children's playground is accessible with the gondola lift from Celerina (suitable for prams).

Children's playgrounds at Sils/Furtschellas and Corvatsch Murtèl

Playful amusement at the highest level... The two playgrounds at Sils/Furtschellas and Corvatsch/Murtèl await the little summiteers with a large selection of entertainment opportunities. While mama and papa indulge in a time-out, our young guests can really have a good romp, and the time flies until the meal arrives.

Celerina Fairytale Trail

This trail features three miracle flowers near the three rock needles "Trais Fluors". The fairytale from Swiss author Sina Semadeni-Bezzola is entwined around the prominent rock formation and is presented in German, Rhaeto-Romanic and Italian. The eleven illustrated plaques can be explored in a leisurely tour in approx. 1½ hours with a view towards the rock crags, which tower in the sky like three petrified needles. The trail is also accessible with a pram. The start of the fairytale hike is at the Marguns top station (2,278 m above sea level).

Trails suitable for prams

Families are sincerely welcomed with us. This is why we try to offer suitable hikes and walks for children of any age. Some of the trails are even suitable for prams and make it possible to roll along on mountain meadows and alpine poppy. This is why active parents should especially focus their attention on the Corviglia/Marguns region. Here they can count on quite a few rambling tracks and gravel paths (see panorama map).

Furtschellas Petting Zoo

Here the small explorers will be in for a surprise: lively dwarf goats and agile mountain rabbits greet them at 2,312 metres above sea level. The well-tended petting zoo in the immediate vicinity of Bergrestaurant La Chüdera is a special pleasure for children. During the summer season, shaggy dwarf goats, cuddly mountain rabbits and chickens live there. This is a perfect chance for touching, petting and feeding the animals (popcorn is available in the restaurant). There is also a diversified playground for having a romp and trying things out.

Alpinathlon Engadin St. Moritz

A multi-sport challenge leading to the finish at 3,303 metres above sea level! The starting signal for the Alpinathlon Engadin St. Moritz will be given on 24 July 2010. The Alpinathlon is sport, adventure, team spirit and border-line experience all at once. In a team, as a couple or as a single the athletes will overcome mountain and valley, hiking trails and high alpine stretches as well as summer and winter. The athletes will master 5,854 metres of ascent and 3,918 metres of descent on the 136.6 km course between Bergün and the Corvatsch station. The distance is divided into five sections: the athletes cover one section with a racing bike and two sections with a mountain bike as well as with running shoes.

TOP EVENTS

Listen carefully and take the gondola to a jazz concert!

Rhythms which you would actually expect in Louisiana blend with the sounds of alphorns in the mountain air on 22.08.10. Nevertheless, the "New Orleans Festival" in Celerina has established itself as a genuine insider's tip in jazz circles. This is why it is also nothing unusual for inveterate 'fingersnappers' and 'foot-tippers' if Swing and Dixie conquer the heights. Or what do you think? In particular, the jazz matinees promise to be a buoyant rendez-vous for jazz and brass band celebrities from Italy, Germany and Switzerland. Music from New Orleans and the atmosphere of mountains – listening pleasure entirely unplugged on the Engadine high-altitude stages!

MOUNTAIN GASTRONOMY

Go up and allow your views to wander.

They are the destination or starting point as well as the place in which bliss consists of checked curtains and creaking corner seating units. They have also made many folks to ascend more altitude metres than intended. The reward for this tastes superb: a box seat in the panorama, with a portion of "pizzoccheri" – flat ribbon pasta made from buckwheat flour – or a steaming barley soup.

MOUNTAIN DINING

Panoramarestaurant Corvatsch

It simply tastes different on the Corvatsch at 3,303 metres above sea level in the panorama restaurant. We invite you to enjoy a few light-hearted hours with a unique view of the Upper Engadine mountain and lake landscape. Allow yourself to be pampered by our service team and chefs. Our menu includes "Bündner" specialities, traditional dishes and creations refined with Far Eastern spices. When preparing your dishes, our chefs use only fresh ingredients. Allow yourself to be surprised by our creative cuisine.

DIAVOLEZZA

Berghaus Diavolezza

It is quiet on the mountain when the last gondola of the day between the mountain pulpit and the base station ends. Only a few people sit as if petrified at the glass façade of the Berghaus restaurant and marvel at the mighty Bernina Range. Moments later one's gaze turns towards the plate. In addition to regional "Bündner" specialities, the chef knows how to dish up tasty treats from the Italian Valtellina region. There is no dearth of fantastic wines at this altitude. Those who want can soak up the silence of the mountains from Europe's highest Jacuzzi and watch the summits while falling asleep. If your eyes are already too tired for this, you can close them in the double or 4-bed room or in the group lodging area.

Sunrise further above on Munt Pers at 3,207 metres

"Alver dal Sulagl" is the Romansh term for sunrise. And on the neighbouring summit of the Diavolezza panorama of the Bernina massif becomes the 'icing on the cake'. At 4 o'clock in the morning a one-hour ascent leads via a well-developed yet narrow trail through the quiet darkness of the high mountain region. The stars still shine. But just in time, before the day dawns, the 3,207 m "box seat" on Munt Pers is reached. The light announces its arrival with the first hot sips of tea. In turn, a magical spectacle of colour coats the sky. Seconds later the sun illuminates the chains of mountain peaks as far as Italy and across to Austria. Directly opposite, the wild beauties Piz Palü and Bernina awaken into an absolute visual attraction. An unheard of scenic gala performance, very near the events!

Scope of services/comments

- Overnight stay in Berghaus Diavolezza
- Hike to Munt Pers
- Only for trained hikers in warm clothing!
- Wool blankets and forehead lamps are available in Berghaus Diavolezza
- No registration is required for the hike (not guided)

ANIMALS IN THE ENGADINE

Adaptation artists

The Upper Engadine is alpine highlands. Winters lasts up to six months. They are hard and long. The ground is frozen, the vegetation sparse. 51 percent of surfaces are covered with rock, only one fifth is alpine turf and the rest are trees, mainly conifers. It is not astonishing that only a few animal species are capable of survival here.

1. Golden eagle

It is regarded as King of the Alps. The eagle is a predator that feeds on small mammals in the summer and carrion in the winter.

2. Bearded vulture

The bearded vulture was exterminated in the 19th century, since it was notorious as a predator of lambs. Nevertheless it is a pure scavenger. The bird is imposing and makes an impression on man and animal with its wingspan of three metres.

3. Alpine jackdaw

It belongs to the Corvidae (raven) family of birds and lives in the mountains at altitudes between 1,500 and 3,900 metres. The jackdaw is nearly 40 centimetres long with a yellow beak and red legs.

ANIMALS IN THE ENGADINE

Hunted and marvelled at

The high mountain region was also a sparse habitat for humans, which they also defended against animals. As a result, bears and lynx were practically exterminated. Hoofed animals such as deer, chamois and ibex were and still are suppliers of meat and will be hunted. But today hunting also serves to regulate the population.

1. Ibex

They are mountain specialists and belong to the genus of goats. A male ibex weighs about 100 kilograms and has imposing antlers of up to one metre in length.

2. Red deer

Deer take in between 8 and 20 kilos of forage per day. They eat grass, bark, nuts, lichens and buds.

3. Marmots

Marmots live in family groups. In order to protect themselves in low-cover terrain against enemies, they are dependent on their lairs. At the first sign of danger they vanish in them and while doing so emit shrill warning whistles.

PLANTS IN THE ENGADINE

Mountain meadows — colourful blossoms and rich in species

In June, the alpine meadows are a veritable paradise of blossoms with hundreds of flowers and plants which flourish and bloom. The alpine meadow is poor in nitrogen and rich in grasses such as yellow oatgrass and red fescue, and rich in flowers such as thistles, arnica, knap-weeds, baldmoney and gentian.

1. Edelweiss

The protected edelweiss is white with long leaves which are hairy. The plant belongs to the family of Compositae. The flower grows on stony ground.

2. Alpine roses

The alpine rose belongs to the family of rhododendrons. It is evergreen. The plant roots flat, which facilitates the growth in the rocky terrain.

3. Gentian

Gentian is regarded as the symbol of fidelity — because of its pure blue colour. The flower closes with cloudy sky and opens again with sunshine. Gentians are protected and may not be picked.

PLANTS IN THE ENGADINE

The mountain forest — attractive and robust

The timberline is about 2,000 metres above sea level and the mountain forest is located underneath. It is constituted differently than the forest in the midland. Larches, Swiss stone pines and mountain pines dominate the tree population in the Upper Engadine. The trees are often shaped through wind and weather. Their growth is slow.

1. Swiss stone pine

It grows up to 30 metres high and lives up to 1,000 years. Young trees are conical with a thick growth of needles. Older trees have a broadly rounded shape.

2. Larch

It is deciduous, becomes golden yellow in the autumn and then sheds its needle-shaped leaves. The larch withstands great temperature fluctuations.

3. Pine

The pine tree belongs to the family of pine plants. It has particularly long needles. In the spring the resin of pine trees smells very intensive.
